Digita

Creative solutions for a digital world

Would you like to have a broadband connection you can use at home, work and on the road?

Digita rolls out @450 broadband using the open network model, in which Digita's role is to be the network operator. Digita rents network capacity to all interested service providers under equal, non-discriminating conditions. Companies and consumers will have an access to the service via service operators. Service operators may be for example mobile and broadband operators.

@450 brings a wireless broadband to

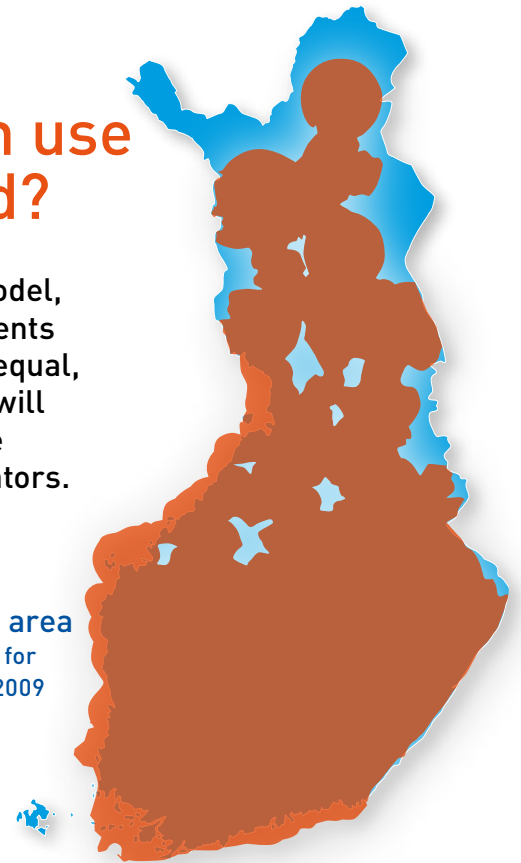

Home: to urban and sparsely populated areas. You can also easily take your home connection with you when travelling.

Holiday home, leisure: using the same connection. You do not necessarily need to work during your free time, but the diverse range of services available on the Internet may also come in handy while on vacation: in holiday homes, boats or mobile homes.

Business: as a part of operative functions of enterprises and as a tool for mobile workers. @450 is the choice for efficient, cost-aware companies: the personnel can use the same network at work, when travelling and at home.

Mobile work: lorries, busses and trams offer an access to the information network – intelligent transport increases safety and provides its users with real-time information on the transport. Passengers may go online with their mobile computers during the journey.

Digita's @450 service brings wireless broadband where it is needed. The service is a digital mobile network, which offers ADSL quality data communication connections to homes and businesses alike. @450 is the only broadband you can take with you – wherever you go.
